

Now that you know where you want to be at the end of year one, your missing pieces are knowing how you are going to get there. This is where you must begin creating your map. When you look at your map, you can see where you are right now, and you can see where you want to be one year from now.

At this point you will not have all the answers to how you will get there, but you are wise enough to know some steps you must take to get there. For example, if you want to write a book, you know you must pick a topic, create an outline, learn how to write like an educated author, and find a publishing company.

When venturing out to achieve your dreams, it is vital to your success to understand that no dynasty has ever been built alone. Meaning, you will need a team of people to help you, guide you, and teach you. Therefore, you know one step in your map is to hire someone like me who can help you on your journey.

Think about where you are now and where you want to be at the end of this year, then use the space provided below to list five actions you must do to begin your journey.

Hopefully, one of your steps included working with me to assist you and lead you in the right direction, all the while holding you accountable to complete your task on the days you don't feel like doing so. Your next step is to break down your five steps you wrote above. Look at your action number one, what are three things you must do to achieve action one? Once you know the three steps needed, repeat the process for your other five actions. If your final destination is a huge dream, you may find you need more than five steps and three mini steps. If so, get out a separate sheet of paper and continue to build your map. Use the space provided below to begin creating your map even more.
